We have no way of verifying the source's story, so we have no further information to share. However, we have confirmed with another insider in a different forum that the game is being described in a more "emotional" manner and that this is a game where each boss has a level based on the player's level, so even at character's 10th level there will be four levels below the player. So while the new game is "difficult", we would expect the enemies to have significantly more challenges and that each will be more challenging than what's on the surface.
